PALLIATIVE CARE RESEARCH NETWORK (PCRN)

NETWORKING OPPORTUNITIES

The PCRN is committed to providing members with opportunities to network and collaborate.

FORUMS

The PCRN forums will include a number of presentations on relevant topics including: updates on key research in palliative care; research methodologies; and identifying gaps in palliative care research.

There will also be opportunities for facilitated panel discussions and small group discussions. PCRN forums will provide researchers with the opportunity to collaborate.

E-NEWS

The PCRN e-news provides members and interested parties with an update on palliative care research funding opportunities, key publications, PCRN news, relevant events and other research related news.

The PCRN welcomes contributions from members, including: job vacancies, networking, training opportunities, and project updates.

PCRN WORKSHOP: 'Analyse This!'

The PCRN is sponsoring a workshop as part of the 4th Australian Palliative Care Research Colloquium from 9:00 - 11:00 am on Thursday, 27th October 2016.

Join us for presentations introducing the 'basics and beyond' of both quantitative and qualitative data collection, data handling and analysis. A panel of experienced researchers will also provide input and feedback on real-life methodological conundrums as presented by 3 early career researchers in relation to their current research projects.

CONCEPT DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOP

The PCRN Concept Development Workshop is for members who have a research idea related to palliative care that they would like support in developing it into a research proposal.

Participants will have the opportunity to develop their research idea with input and guidance from senior palliative care researchers in relation to concept, feasibility, methodology, and budget.

The next workshop will be on 26 August 2016.
